QUALIFICATIONS & FUNCTIONS

of

PRESIDENT (OR VICE CHANCELLOR)

(pp.228) He should not only be the "Chief executive officer" but also its "leader and seer".

(pp.231) The President of a State University ought to prepare to meet future needs of the population which the University chiefly serves, and to meet every appropriate demand as soon as the demand is appreciable.

(pp.236) He must be able to supervise "every part and aspect of the University".

(pp.237) He must be able"to preside at all Faculty meetings".

(pp.238) He should be "acquainted with the prevailing discussions or Education, Sociology and Legislation" and should be able "to give the Faculties the benefit of his observations outside the University world".

(pp.237) "He needs acquaintence with the changing conditions of the professions which the University feeds with the alterations in the national industries and habits, which cause or should cause, the rise of new professions".

(pp.238) He should be "an inventing and animating force" as well as "a leader, but not a ruler or autocrat".

(pp.239) He "must have a wide intercourse with all sorts of men and have real discussions on Education, Legislation, Sociology".

The words have been underlined by me